

Lindsey Ohlin has lived in Weber County her entire life. She currently lives in Roy with her husband Jared and two boys. She studied Health Promotion and Nutrition Education at Weber State University and graduated Summa Cum Laude with a Bachelor of Science degree. Lindsey values education, finding absolutely nothing to be boring, and considers herself a lifelong learner, a value which she she hopes to instill in her children and those around her. She loves interacting with the youth in the community by coaching various sports teams and teaching a United States history and Constitutional studies class. She currently serves as the Roy City Planning Commission Chair as well as the Secretary for the Utah Republican Women's Liberty Caucus. She has volunteered with multiple Republican Party candidate campaigns. She is a State and County delegate for her precinct and has been a lifelong Republican. She was a recipient of the Weber County Republican Party Lincoln Day Dinner award for Community Service Above and Beyond for "educating the masses" by trying to disseminate information regarding local government, community events, as well as principles of good government via social media and online groups and forums. She loves giving away books about history and principles of the founding of our nation. In her free time she enjoys playing and teaching the piano and violin, reading, studying history, and spending time with her family out in the wilderness away from the world.

Organized:

- Will ensure that records are accurate, timely, and accessible.
- Will digitize party documents and records.
- Will ensure that notifications for meetings, conventions and other events are timely and provided via multiple sources.

Open:

- Will provide all available information online and in a digital format.
- Will keep records and delegate lists updated and accessible.
- Will promote transparency among leadership and include party membership at the grassroots level.

Optimistic:

- Will encourage WCRP members to join in online discussions to promote unity and excitement.
- Staunch caucus system supporter and I will do all I can to preserve it.
- Our party platform is filled with quality principles that need to be shared with the youth. Being a Republican is not outdated, stuffy, or boring. With optimism and education we can get back to our principles and promote new membership.
